PREFACE

Nathalie Lazaric, EAEPE President 2016-2020

Nice Conference is the occasion to celebrate the 30th anniversary of our association! Thirty years is a good period for looking backward and thinking to our founding values and to our history. Our history has been characterized by periods of calm and turbulent waters. Looking backward turbulent periods always appear with a negative connotation, however we must be aware that turbulent periods are part of the life of any organization and represent its vitality. Indeed, periods of tensions are opportunities to rejuvenate a mature organization. In our case these tensions have been absorbed and mitigated by the presence of a group of key people such as Wolfram Elsner, Pasquale Tridico, Oliver Kessler and Charlie (and many others) who was able to manage difficult periods and to inject new energy in our organization. Especially, Pasquale has played a crucial role in saving our organizational memory, continuing our current projects (i.e. summer school, symposia, workshops, etc.), and launching new initiatives. Therefore, after a period of turbulent waters, we are now ready for starting new projects!

This balance between preserving our founding values and promoting new initiatives, resulted in a condition of stable growth of our organization. For instance, our annual conference has shown a significant increase in the number of participants (around 200 participants in Cyprus, 2014, 270 in Genoa, 2015, more than 300 in Manchester, 2016, and Budapest, 2017, and about 400 in Nice, 2018). Not only the number of participants but also the quality of papers presented increased as well as the number of initiatives around the conference. An extremely successful initiative has been to establish a pre-conference aiming at creating new links with young scholars.

After 30 years, today we are at a new historical turning point facing a series of important questions for our future. Some of these questions are recurrent, others are completely new. How do we stabilize our growth? How do we develop new activities without losing our founding values and pluralism? How do we develop our commitment in heterodox networks? How do we promote our influence in designing policy-making actions? How do we transmit our heritage and past commitments to the new generations? These questions are at the heart of any mature organization. Currently, several projects are under discussion and might be developed soon in the form of new journals (with Wolfram Elsner), new media (EAEPE think tank), and new ways of teaching and diffusing our knowledge (EAEPE University). In developing these projects, we should always remember that past paves the way of our present (and future) and that any organization which ignores this may encounter serious problems. We should always have in mind where we came from! However, at the same time, path dependency should not be transformed in “core rigidity” hampering our evolution. This balance between past and future of our organisation, should drive the work of the current members and of the new comers. To conclude, I am particularly grateful to Riccardo Pariboni and Pasquale Tridico for having gathered all the required information and documents included in this collection, to the Council (Manuel, Marco, Irene, Olga, Engelbert, Charlie, Oliver, Andrea, Pasquale of course!) that has been always very active, enthusiast and committed. I hope you will enjoy the story of the thirty years of our association and the EAEPE 2018 conference!

Nathalie Lazaric

INTRODUCTION

Pasquale Tridico, EAEPE General Secretary
2012 - 2020

EAEPE originates from a meeting at a conference in Grim's Dyke, London, on 29 June 1988. After that, the first formal step was the Conference held in Keswick, Cumbria, UK on 19-22 September 1989 which can be considered the first EAEPE Annual conference. A Constitution for the newly created association was adopted, and EAEPE Councils (initially called Steering Committee) were regularly elected since then. Some changes in the Constitution occurred in the past three decades, but substantially it remains still the same of 30 years ago.

Since 1991 EAEPE was articulated in a number of Research Areas with a Scientific Development Plan Coordinator, and two coordinators for each Research Area. Today the Association has 26 Research Areas, and a strong commitment towards interdisciplinary approaches and pluralism. This is in line with the spirit of the association that, since its foundation, aims to promote evolutionary, dynamic and realistic approaches to economic theory and policy.

The number of EAEPE members, presenting papers at annual conferences, regularly held since 1989, is over 500 now; this makes the EAEPE the foremost European association for heterodox economists broadly defined, and is the second-largest association for economists in Europe.

Beside the annual conferences, which are the great momentum of the year for the EAEPE, with a rate of participants with papers between 250 and 350, EAEPE organizes also symposia and summer schools. Symposia are “mini-conference” held usually in spring on particular fields. Summer School are mostly dedicated to PhD students training. The first EAEPE Summer Schools were organised in 1996-1998 (Kenmare, Ireland) by Geoff Hodgson, one of the EAEPE founders, who launched also the Journal of Institutional Economics, a journal sponsored by EAEPE, in press since 2005 and published by Cambridge University Press. Since 2010, EAEPE has renewed the tradition of organising an annual Summer School. The 2010-2018 editions have been hosted by the University of Roma Tre (Rome, Italy) and organised by Pasquale Tridico and Sebastiano Fadda.

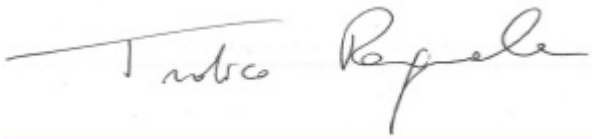

In collaboration with Edward Elgar Publishing, EAEPE has produced a series of conference volumes and of volumes on specific topics, some of which have received very positive reviews in leading academic journals. Today this collaboration has extended also to Routledge, which published several EAEPE volumes and EAEPE Summer School books.

During the 27th annual conference (Genova, 2015), EAEPE Council and Assembly have approved the creation of a new journal. We are now entering the final stage of the process and we hope to launch the first issue of Review of Evolutionary Political Economy in January 2019.

The association runs also prizes for the best book (the EAEPE-Kapp Prize) for the best paper (the EAEPE-Myrdal Prize) and for the best paper authored by young scholars (the EAEPE-Simon Young Scholar Prize).

All these activities need a systematic and ordered "historical archive". This is the reason why the current Secretariat and the Council of the Association decided to publish a Figures&Fact brochure for the information of its members and for the future memory.

EAEPE COUNCIL MEMBERS

The first two years after EAEPE was founded at the 'Grim's Dyke Meeting' in June 1988, the theoretical perspectives were defined and, concerning organizational questions, an ad-hoc Steering Committee was appointed.

Thus, with the first elections taking place in 1989 and the ratification of the constitution, EAEPE's Council was elected for the first time. According to the constitution (the final draft was published in Newsletter Number 2 from 1989), Council elections are to be held at least once in every two consecutive calendar years. The latest elections have been taking place in December 2017.

Ad - Hoc Steering Committee:

Geoffrey Hodgson, Richard Bailey, Wolfgang Blaas, Robert Delorme, Kurt Dopfer, John Groenewegen, Egon Matzner, Lars Mjoset, Klaus Nielsen, Angelo Reati, Ernesto Screpanti, Peter Söderbaum

EAEPE PRESIDENTS

The term 'Chairperson' was used from 1990-1997. With a constitutional amendment in 1997/1, the term was changed to 'President'

1990-2003	Robert Delorme
2004-2011	Pascal Petit
