Final Call for Papers

EAEPE’s annual conference 2012 will be devoted to challenges in current economic policy connected with economical and financial crisis. Unstable situation at financial markets, increasing public debts and limited economic growth require new solutions in economic policy. Many traditional tools of growth recovery do not bring positive results and show that both background of current crises and expected policy recommendations are much different than in the past. The EAEPE’s annual conference 2012 will be a platform for exchange ideas and results of both theoretical and empirical research connected with possible ways of economic recovery. The conference invites all scholars to submit their contribution on the conference theme of this year, or on usual topics covered by EAEPE’s research areas.

Keynotes will be provided by Dani Rodrik and Marek Belka.

Abstracts for papers to be presented can be submitted electronically at http://eaepe.org/conferences/

Each submission should specify either one of EAEPE’s research areas or indicate that it contributes to the conference theme. Special sessions will be dedicated also to scientific heritage of Michal Kalecki. All participants can submit a proposal.

Abstracts should have a length of at least 300 words (minimum) and 750 words (maximum), and should provide name, email and (if possible) affiliation(s) of the author(s), along with the closest name and code of the EAEPE’s research areas (please look at the EAEPE web site www.eaepe.org).

Authors are also invited to propose special sessions (4 abstracts). PhD special sessions will also be organized. PhD students will not have to pay conference fee.
